Friends Go Fishing

(Luke 5:1-11)

Many people were at the seashore. The people were pushing each other because they wanted to be near Jesus. They wanted to hear him talk about God. Jesus climbed into Simon’s boat and asked him to push off from shore. Then Jesus sat in the boat and everyone could see and hear Him. When Jesus had finished speaking, He told Simon, “Now take the boat out and catch some fish.” “We worked all night but we couldn’t catch any,” said Simon. “We will try again if you say so.” The fishermen put their nets down in the water. When the fishermen tried to pull the nets up, the nets were too heavy. The nets were full of fish. “Come help us,” the fishermen called to their friends in another boat. They all pulled and lots and lots of fish fell into the boat. Jesus helped the fishermen. Jesus was a friend to the fishermen. The fishermen pulled their boats up on the shore and left everything to follow Jesus.
